Introduction

Forecast Public Art (FPA), established in 1978, is a 501c3 non-profit organization based in Minnesota. An early industry leader in public art consultation, our team is mission-driven in developing measurable actions towards policy and recommendations that lead to cultural competency, community development, and neighborhood well-being.

Forecast envisions project outcomes where clients feel a renewed sense of knowledge and belonging, realizing their potential to activate ideas.

In August 2021, the Art Council of Placer County (ACPC) posted a RFQ in search of a Cultural Mapping study to identify racially and economically under-served communities in which art can exponentially improve quality of life. The result of outreach was intended to identify existing cultural assets and creative resources that the ACPC and other arts organizations can utilize as a resource tool.

Among the Phase One 1:1 Interviews, Focus Group Discussions, and Public Survey, three important themes surfaced again and again: Equity, Workforce Development (for Artist and Organization), and Youth.

The results of Phase One will inform and guide Phase Two recommendations upon ACPC’s future allocation of resources including but not limited to grant funding, in-kind donations, advocacy, outreach, collaboration, marketing, and agency programming towards social equity.

We have collected recommendations and ideas regarding grants, partnerships, advocacy, education, outreach, programming, and marketing. We plan to draft Phase Two content centered around the community feedback upon these specific three county-wide themes.

As nearby neighbors living in Reno, Nevada, I am grateful for the pleasure to work alongside such knowledgeable and tireless contributors to arts and culture in Placer County, especially the ACPC, its staff, and its leadership.

Sincerely,

Mark Salinas, Senior Project Manager
Forecast Public Art

Knowing Your Community

Placer County is a destination for visitors from around the world, but for its local residents, there is a personal sense of how fortunate we are to live, work and play in such a beautiful county. Within its borders, picturesque farm land and Gold-Rush era towns dot the oak-covered foothills. Craggy peaks, forests, tumbling rivers and clear alpine lakes create the natural beauty of the High Country. The gem of our county is scenic North Lake Tahoe, known for its beauty, size and clarity, but we also have numerous small towns known for their unique and rich heritage that make up the landscape along Interstate 80.

If you are an outdoor enthusiast, there is no better place to be than Placer County with its natural lakes, rivers and streams for whitewater rafting and fishing, while also being home to more than one million acres of national forest land filled with trails for hiking, horseback riding and mountain biking. We also boast a handful of world-renowned ski resorts making Placer County a year-round destination for winter and summer recreation that attracts more than one million visitors each year. Culture seekers marvel at the array of artisans, galleries and events. Wine connoisseurs, craft beer aficionados, foodies, shoppers, and history buffs all delight in the bounty of Placer County.

Feel the fascination and experience the adventure within Placer’s 1400 square miles of the most beautifully diverse geography in Northern California. Placer County is a continent within a county because of its range of landscape, history, and activities. A Northern California jewel, stretching for a hundred miles.

Knowing Your Arts Audience

Perhaps you are an artist that is dependent upon the general public for sales, attendance, or promotion. Or, perhaps you are a cultural organization that is dependent upon the general public for preservation, development, and education. To develop the general public into an arts and culture audience takes time, relationship-building, and strategy. This begins with understanding who you are as an individual or organization—what unique services you offer or require, and who in the general public you can attract and maintain as a supporter or patron. Developing conversations around who you can exchange, collaborate, attract, and retain will develop the general public into your arts audience. And that starts with getting familiar with the current and forecasted composition of who lives in your county and districts. On the Placer County website are links to your individual District, as well as the overall County.

The sooner you can identify your past partnerships, the sooner you can search such data and census material to explore ways to deepen and expand future partnerships. In the forthcoming interview, focus group, and survey results, remember to look at the big picture—literally the map.

Placer County is extremely unique in that it spans Roseville (elevation 164’) to Tahoe City (elevation 6250’); it includes populations that depend on seasonal tourism dollars; it holds onto rural, historical interests while making way for younger, new residents from Sacramento and beyond.

So, if you are an artist or an organization, chances are you will need different methods to reach these different audiences. And if you are a state-local arts agency, like the Arts Council of Placer County, you too will need inventive methods to communicate county-wide.

"Let's put politics aside and connect as human beings. And let's offer to rethink what we assume we know about each other and ourselves. We know we need each other here."
1:1 Interviews consisted of 50 minute telephone conversations that allowed us to directly connect to individuals through our own research and 2nd and 3rd party recommendations. We sought out individuals affiliated with public institutions and social service organizations, specifically those servicing historically under-represented communities. Below is a summary of the topics and questions that guided these conversations.

COMMUNITY

- What underserved or under resourced communities exist in Placer County? If so, how would you describe each community as being underserved?
  IE: under representation, historic discrimination, not enough public resources, economic obstacles, access inaccessibility, lack of telecommunications?
- Are there any pockets in Placer County where these communities are focused? If so, where?
- Where do members of these underserved communities obtain their current resources?
- How do members communicate with one another, stay in touch, share news?
- How are the needs of underserved communities in Placer communicated to the city or county?
- Are there any organizations that work with these communities that you know of that we should contact?
- Are there any leaders, advocates, spokesperson of these underserved communities that you know of that we should contact?

ART

- In a general sense, how do you think the arts and culture is best serving Placer County?
- Have you heard of the Arts Council of Placer County (ACPC)?
- Can you think of one connection with an underserved or under resourced community that can be fostered or strengthened through the arts?
- Can you think of a way in which the arts can support the well-being of these communities and individuals?
- Do you have any thoughts how public art can serve this community to provide a better quality of living?
- How can new connections be made with these communities?
- How can those connections be sustained over time?
- How can arts and culture collaborate with your public service organization to serve or inform your clients/members/community?

1:1 Interview Testimonials

"Let’s rethink what we assume we know about each other and ourselves."

Equity

“The Placer County Latinx community is more than just Día de Los Muertos and Frida Kahlo; more than just house keepers and gardeners."

"Having a nod to culture doesn't change minds or racism."

"There were early restrictions upon immigrants preventing them to own land so they had to farm it for someone else."

"There is a denial of POC existence – a denial that there is a need for equity – and this blindness to identify underserved communities continues its white hierarchy."

Workforce Development (For Artists + Organizations)

"POC want to collaborate, not consult on projects."

"Libraries are interested in social and emotion success, not just literary success."

"The City of Roseville needs an Arts Commission."

"When folks see themselves represented in art they feel connected to that community and they want to cultivate it; spend money."

"We organizations need to learn how to connect with the younger generation now if we want them to continue our work."

Youth

"Basic living needs are first and foremost. A lot of nudging is required from parents to support the arts or bring art supplies. However when we provide the materials and supplies, they gobble it up."

"55% of our clients are underserved youth in Placer County."
Focus Groups

Focus Groups consisted of a series of four virtual and in-person convenings of ACPC Communities of Color grantees and other ACPC recommended BIPOC arts advocates in Placer County. Often, set focus group questions will provide as entry points for alternate discussions, thoughts, and topics. This practice created a flexible manner for the group to communicate values, successes, needs and barriers. Below is a summary of the topics and questions that guided these discussions.

1) Grants Funding

- Please rank the importance of these grant needs for your organization:
  Preservation: Documentation and recording of lifestyles, passing traditions onto younger generation
  Development: Operational expenses such as staff, rent, utilities, internet, website design and maintenance.
  Outreach: Community engagement, events, educational understanding, membership, contributions
  Other?
  - Which need was reflected in your ACPC Community of Color grant application?
  - If not a ACPC grant recipient, could you see your organization applying for a grant for one of these needs? If so, what is that?

2) Volunteerism

- What percentage of your organization’s success is based upon volunteerism?
- What are the three major tasks your organization’s volunteers assist?
- How do you find your volunteers?
- How do you keep them?

3) In-Kind Contributions

- What percentage of your organization’s success is based upon in-kind contributions (non-cash)?
- What are the three major items that are donated (non-cash)?
- How do you find in-kind donors?
- How do you keep them?
4) Audience

- Who is your audience? Describe who they are, where they live, what they do, and why they follow you.
- How far do they travel to attend your events, take part in your programming?
- Are tourists a part of your audience? If so, when in the year?
- What percentage of your audience are artists or in an arts-related industry/field?
- How often do you partner with another arts organization? Is this a BIPOC organization?
- How often do you partner with a non-arts organization? Is this a BIPOC organization?
- Does your organization provide services outside of its own county district?

5) Communication

- How do you communicate with your audience? US postcards, e-blasts, flyers, telephone calls?
- How much of your communications is on social media?
- Does anyone lack internet where they live?
- What types of arts and culture does the media (tv, newspaper, magazine, radio) cover in Placer County?
- Do you send press releases for your major events and for your successes?
- Does the media cover your events? If not, why do you think so?

Focus Group Testimonials

“Change moves at the speed of trust.”

Equity

“ACPC can support our organization by amplifying voices and helping to provide greater access and representation to underserved groups.”

“I want to see a balance of ‘popular art’ with different points of view. Some public art programs with a social justice lens have been met with resistance and fear.”

“BIPOC artists in my community don’t feel safe.”

“Sierra College is a safe haven for students/art community.”

“Accurate, modern tellings of history lack county urgency and importance and this in turn loses the public trust of those we are trying to provide services for.”

Workforce Development (Artist)

“We need more volunteers, especially people who work well with youth and teens.”

“Provide programs that connect the artist to the land and environment.”

“Social mixers to form relationships.”

Workforce Development (Organization)

“Our organization needs help with promotion and publication.”

“My organization is really embracing video technology to get our message out.”

“How can we use phone videos as a tool for business?”

Youth

“Transportation is a big barrier for our students. I’d like to see transportation support to bring kids from rural communities into cities to see art.”

“Create a safe/free/affordable transportation option for youth and families.”
Focus Group Ideas

"How do we get younger people engaged?"

Equity

1) Placing public art where the community already convenes.

2) More exhibitions and opportunities for BIPOC artists, but not necessarily labeling these opportunities as "BIPOC" shows.

3) Help linking funding to programs. There are many organizations already doing great things, but they need financial support.

Workforce Development (Artist)

4) Artist-in-Residence program at senior centers, public libraries, etc.

5) Paid internships for emerging artists to create intergenerational community leadership

Workforce Development (Organization)

6) ACPC workshops for organizational arts marketing, promotion, and networking.

7) Centralized arts/entertainment calendar and newsletter for Placer County.

8) Bring BIPOC artists into all exhibitions, events and opportunities to create truly diverse and equitable offerings.

Youth

9) Buses for Title 1 Schools to attend museums, Powwows, studio tours.

10) Free and affordable programming to provide greater access to youth, families and low-income populations.

11) Programs that partner youth with elders/seniors as creative mentors on small public projects.
Results of the community survey are to be used as a planning tool to assist ACPC in advocating and distributing equitable resources throughout the county in support of arts and culture. With county-wide participation, ACPC can support an enriched environment of equitable values, robust programming, and collaborative partnerships for both residents and visitors.

The community survey was prepared by Forecast Public Art and available in both English and Spanish. The survey was open to public response from April 2022 - July 2022 and 365 responses were received. All survey questions were approved by the ACPC Steering Committee. The survey was distributed by ACPC staff, Trustees, Steering Committee members, partners, and FPA staff through website, e-blasts, flyers, social media, personal emails, and phone calls.

The 5-7 minute survey offered the following incentives: (4) $25 Big Spoon Yogurt gift cards / (1) $200 Placer County artwork gift certificate.

renovated theater with performances
Music festivals for 18-35 audience that bring major headliners to rural outdoor spaces
Old-time fiddling jams and contests
TESTIMONIALS:

Placer County could be a more diverse creative community by embracing the revolutionaries of an art community, the rebels (edgy, alternative art from a younger generation), rather than excluding them.

We should have something like the Harris Center, based in Sierra College.

Annual sculpture competition from which one sculpture would be purchased each year to begin a sculpture park.

Artists to decorate public infrastructure and create a annual art tour of the works

Need to get rid of the homelessness that causes people to not shop and visit Auburn.

Faith McKinnie is organizing many events in Sacramento that would be great for Placer. She organized an exhibition inside the Arden Mall and another in a building that was torn down. For that building, she invited an inclusive and diverse group of artists to make site specific installations. It would be great to bring art to areas that historically have not had art.

An art museum where we used to live sent out instructions and supplies to anyone who asked and we all did self-portraits, submitted them, and they were part of a larger community exhibit. It included all ages, races, genders, neighborhoods.

Another exhibit I saw once was art and photography done by people living with mental illness. It was amazing and illuminating. Similar art might be created and exhibited by food bank clients...anonymously but solicited through the boxes they pick up.

In Yolo County they do farm tours (outdoor plein air painting and photography) each month all spring and summer, then in Sept or Oct the artists submit their work in a big fund-raising event. They can either donate the art and the pricing starts at $250 or submit it in an auction of juried pieces. They raise HUGE amounts of money!

TESTIMONIAL:
"Churches are a vital source of contact for diverse people. They are also enormous crucibles for the arts. A church can be a tremendous conduit to immigrants, populations that are otherwise hidden, to youth and seniors and community minded folks. To intentionally leave churches out of cultural mapping is to miss out on a major % of the community constituency as well as a great networking and visibility opportunity. There is no reason to exclude them from the list of agencies/organizations in the multiple-choice menus. ("Separation of church and state" does not apply here — putting a brochure or announcement in a church bulletin is simple information sharing, not promoting "religion")."
Survey Question #16

Phase Two: Next Steps

The Survey-At-A-Glance conveys a quick understanding of the data collected. However, oftentimes low responses or what is absent from a survey question can tell you something deeper. We will tie visible and hidden data into future county-wide conversations to recommend ACPC’s future allocation of resources, including but limited to: grant funding, in-kind donations, advocacy, outreach, collaboration, marketing, and agency programming towards social equity.

Already FPA envisions that Phase Two will focus upon these reoccurring Phase One themes:

- Equity
- Workforce Development (for Artists and Organizations)
- Youth

For Phase 2, FPA will compile all gathered data from Phase 1 and create a five-year road map, consisting of actionable, prioritized steps, including recommendations for specific areas of programming in the County, present ideas for actions to take in the short, mid, and long term, and definitions of roles and responsibilities. It is anticipated that graphics and mapping illustrations will be minimal.

Phase 2 Deliverables:

- (2) In-person Meetings/Site Visits between January - March 2023
- Draft Implementation and Marketing Plan on February 15, 2023 at ACPC Board Meeting
- Final Implementation and Marketing Plan on March 15, 2023 at ACPC Board Meeting.
Acknowledgements

The ACPC, Placer County citizens, and tourists are ready to recalibrate their cultural commitment to its diverse land and peoples. Forecast Public Art is energized to work with such a state-local partner that supports a county-wide focus to “experience art in all degrees” and thanks all the aforementioned participants who added thoughtful input toward our shared common mission.

Thank you!
